- Regularly use an effective sanitizing agent to keep all pantry and waiting area surfaces as germ free as possible.
- Review your distribution procedure from start to finish, modifying any part that enables germ spreading, such as sharing pens and handling of pantry products.
- Keep people from closely congregating in line and waiting areas.
- Consider temporarily changing to a pre-bagged distribution method to keep client access to pantry spaces and time exposed to one another minimized.
- If possible, consider conducting pre-bagged distributions outside.
- Allow sick clients to send a proxy to pick-up their food.
